Instructor:  Professor Rania Salem
Time & Location:  Tuesdays 10 am - 2 pm, Room 240
Office Hours & Office:  By appointment, Room 358
Email:  rsalem@utsc.utoronto.ca

Course Description & Objectives:
This graduate seminar will expose students to themes and debates in the literature related to the sociology of families. In our first session, we will evaluate the main theoretical perspectives found in the literature. We will spend the next ten sessions surveying broad trends in the literature dealing with a number of discrete substantive topics. Readings will focus largely on research conducted on contemporary high-income societies, and will span the fields of sociology, demography, and anthropology. Students will have the opportunity to read more deeply on a substantive area of interest in the course of writing a final paper, which they will present to their peers in the final session of the semester.

Requirements & Evaluation:

Participation:  This course is organized as a seminar. While I will provide a brief overview of each session’s topic, class sessions will consist primarily of student presentations and discussions focused on the readings. (10%)

Critical Reviews:  Over the course of the semester, each student will prepare a total of three critical reviews. These consist of short critical essays concerning the current session’s readings, and should be no more than 2-3 double-spaced pages in length. Critical review guidelines will be handed out separately. We will work out the schedule for each student’s reviews during the first class meeting. Students should email their reviews to me (as a Word attachment) by no later than 5 pm on the day preceding the class session dealing with the readings they have been assigned to cover. (30%)
Presenting and Leading Discussions: Over the course of the semester, each student will lead 2 discussions on the assigned readings. Starting from week 2, the student will start the class by presenting a critical assessment of the assigned readings (of no more than 10 minutes) and leading a discussion on those readings (for approximately 20 minutes). We will work out the schedule for each student’s presentations during the first class meeting. Please note that, depending on class enrollment, you may be working with another student on a given session’s presentation. Discussion leaders should forward to me a list of at least 5 discussion questions (as a Word attachment) by no later than 5 pm on the day preceding the class session dealing with the readings they have been assigned to cover. (20%)

Final Research Paper or Proposal: The course’s core requirement is the preparation of an original research paper or research proposal (of no more than 15-20 double-spaced pages). The paper should define a research question, review the existing literature, and either: a) analyze appropriate data and present the findings and their implications, or b) propose a detailed justification and strategy for conducting an original empirical research project. Students are encouraged to use this project to develop a conference paper, dissertation prospectus, or journal article. More detailed guidelines will be provided separately. A 3-4 page proposal is due by email (as a Word attachment) before week 6 on February 12th. Penultimate drafts of the final paper will be presented in a 12-15 minute oral presentation (5%) during the final session of the semester on April 2nd, when students will have the opportunity to receive feedback from their peers. The final paper will be due by email (as a Word attachment) on April 18th (35%).

Course Policies:

Academic Integrity: By enrolling in this course, you agree to abide by the university’s rules regarding academic conduct, as outlined in the Calendar. You are expected to be familiar with the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters (http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/osai/The-rules/code/the-code-of-behaviour-on-academic-matters) and Code of Student Conduct (http://www.viceprovoststudents.utoronto.ca/publicationsandpolicies/codeofstudentconduct.htm) which spell out your rights, your duties and provide all the details on grading regulations and academic offences at the University of Toronto.

Accessibility: It is the University of Toronto's goal to create a community that is inclusive of all persons and treats all members of the community in an equitable manner. In creating such a community, the University aims to foster a climate of understanding and mutual respect for the dignity and worth of all persons. Please see the University of Toronto Governing Council

Equity and Diversity: The University of Toronto is committed to equity and respect for diversity. All members of the learning environment in this course should strive to create an atmosphere of mutual respect. As a course instructor, I will neither condone nor tolerate behaviour that undermines the dignity or self-esteem of any individual in this course and wish to be alerted to any attempt to create an intimidating or hostile environment. It is our collective responsibility to create a space that is inclusive and welcomes discussion. Discrimination, harassment and hate speech will not be tolerated. Additional information and reports on Equity and Diversity at the University of Toronto is available at http://equity.hrandequity.utoronto.ca.

Readings:

You can access the course readings through the course’s Quercus site. Further details and a link will be provided in the first session.

Week 1: January 8th

A Selection of Theoretical Approaches to Studying Families

Week 2: January 15th
Heterosexual Marriage

Week 3: January 22nd
Heterosexual Cohabitation

Week 4: January 29th
Transitions to Adulthood in an Uncertain Economy

Silva, Jennifer M. 2013. Coming Up Short: Working-Class Adulthood in an Age of Uncertainty. N.Y.: Oxford University Press. [Chaps. 1, 3] (49)

Week 5: February 5th
Heterosexual Divorce

Week 6: February 12th
Same Sex Partners and their Families

----------------------------------------Reading Week----------------------------------------

Week 7: February 26
Family Structure and Child Outcomes

Week 8: March 5
Fatherhood and Motherhood

Doucet, Andrea.  2004. “‘It’s Almost Like I Have a Job, but I Don’t Get Paid’: Fathers at Home Reconfiguring Work, Care, and Masculinity” Fathering 2 (3): 277-303. (26)

Week 9: March 12

Carework

Week 10: March 19

Household Work and the Gender Division of Labor

a Household” pages 151-184, in Getting By in Hard Times. Toronto: University of Toronto Press. (60)

Week 11: March 26th
Family Violence

Week 12: April 2nd
Student Final Paper Workshop