SOC209H1S - Sexuality and Modernity

This course examines questions related to sexuality, with a special focus on the social construction of sexual identity, practice, community and desire. To do so, we proceed self-consciously with a critical analysis of the modern study of sexuality, and the ways in which sexual science, as a kind of social practice, has affected the construction and regulation of sexual orientation.

Estimated Enrollment: 50 students

Estimated TA Support: 70 hours

Class Schedule: Mondays & Wednesdays, 6-8

Dates of Appointment: July 1, 2019 – August 31, 2019

Salary: $8,160 Sessional Lecturer I; $8,364 Sessional Lecturer I Long Term; $8,568 Sessional Lecturer II; $8,772 Sessional Lecturer III

Qualifications: PhD in Sociology required (or equivalent as demonstrated by refereed, published research). Strong academic record in area required. Superior undergraduate teaching at the university level directly related to the area is strongly preferred.

Description of Duties: The Sessional Lecturer in SOC209H1S is responsible for the preparation of the course syllabus, the preparation and presentation of course material. It is the duty of the Sessional Lecturer to attend regularly scheduled office hours. Sessional Lecturers are responsible for supervising the work of TA's assigned to this course; for preparing and evaluating course assignments, term tests, and the final examination; and for submitting final marks in accordance with University deadlines.

Application Procedure: All individuals interested in this position must submit a cover letter, Curriculum Vitae and the CUPE 3902 Application form, (which is available at: <http://forms.hrandequity.utoronto.ca/#recruitment>. Following the closing date, selected applicants may be asked to submit an annotated proposed syllabi for the course) to:

Professor Christian Caron
Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies
