

The Future of Social Movements in Canada

Friday 16 November 2018

East Common Room Hart House, University of Toronto

Free admission

Registration required <https://bit.ly/2tLLdVL>

Accessibility anna.slavina@mail.utoronto.ca

9:30 Refreshments

10:-00 Introduction

“Opening Remarks,” Robert Brym, SD Clark Professor, University of Toronto

10.15 – 12.00 Decline or rise?

“Are social movements relevant?” Howard Ramos, Dalhousie University

“How Trump re-mobilized the left,” Catherine Corrigan-Brown, University of British Columbia

Discussant: Anna Slavina, University of Toronto

1.30 – 3.30 Left vs right

“Antifa and alt-right: movement/counter-movement dynamics in the post-Trump era,” Lesley Wood, York University

“The religious right in Canada and the United States,” Tina Fetner, McMaster University

Discussant: Anna Slavina, University of Toronto

The 4th SD Clark Symposium on the Future of Canadian Society