

New Topics in Sociology:
SOCIOLOGY OF LGBTQI+ FAMILIES
SOC351H1S (Online)
Summer 2020

S. W. Underwood
725 Spadina Ave.
s.underwood@mail.utoronto.ca

Class Time: Tues. & Thurs., 10AM – 1PM EST
Location: Online, on Quercus
Office Hours: TBD

Teaching Assistant: Jaime Nikolaou, j.nikolaou@utoronto.ca

Course Description: This class will provide students with an in-depth understanding of the variety and lived realities of families within the LGBTQI+ communities of Canada and the USA. Students will critically examine normative notions of family across axes of gender, race, ethnicity, class, marital status, and kinship ties, giving special attention to how LGBTQI+ families challenge these patterns. At the same time, we explore the historical, material, institutional, and legal challenges faced by LGBTQI+ families.

Goals and Learning Objectives:

- To understand how gender, sexualities, and race (among other important axes of identity) are socially constructed and how they generate embodied experiences and material consequences in specific historical and cultural contexts
- To understand how ideas about ‘family’ structure our daily lives, and in particular, how LGBTQI+ families are reimagining and reshaping meanings of family, parenthood, motherhood, fatherhood, and so forth
- To develop an understanding of the social and political struggles for cultural, institutional, and legal recognition of LGBTQI+ families in Canada and the USA

Prerequisites: The prerequisite to take SOC351 is completion of SOC201H1, SOC202H1, & SOC204H1, plus two of the following: SOC251H1, SOC252H1, SOC254H1. Students without this prerequisite will be removed at any time and without notice.

Required Texts: None. All readings will be made available online on Quercus.

Evaluations:

Discussion Posts	10%	Two discussion posts due by 11:59PM Mon. & Wed. weekly Two responses due by 11:59PM Fri. weekly

Essay 2—Research Paper	35%	Monday, August 10 th
Final Assessment	20%	12-3PM online, Wednesday, August 19 th

Class Format: Lectures for this course are asynchronous, which means that they will be recorded in advance and posted to Quercus at normal class times. Students may therefore ‘attend’ lectures at any time they choose, but it is strongly encouraged that students listen to them during the normal class hours so that we are all ‘on (the same) schedule’. Students are therefore expected to attend (listen/watch online) all lectures and to participate actively by 1) submitting online discussion posts before each class they are due [verify the dates on the course calendar], 2) completing assigned readings, 3) engaging continuously in online discussions, and 4) keeping up to date on course information posted on Quercus. In all activities, students are to be respectful of fellow classmates, guest speakers, and teaching/administrative staff.

Tutorials: Because this course is online and students may be in different time zones, the tutorials for this course will also be asynchronous, which means that they do not need to be attended live. However, tutorial videos will be recorded and uploaded by the TA immediately after each lecture. The tutorial video will offer students something thought-provoking or that aims to develop core research and writing skills (especially that will serve you in your final research paper!). Students will have 24 hours to respond to the exercise provided by the TA. Responses will be posted directly to Quercus.

Email and Contact: When emailing the instructor or TA, please use your mail.utoronto.ca address. Do NOT use Quercus to contact me or the TA as these messages will not be read. Please also include “SOC351” and a brief description in the subject line so that your email is easily prioritized. Emails will typically be answered within 48 hours. Keep in mind that for simple questions, email is the preferred method of communication. However, for longer questions, students should attend office hours and/or schedule an appointment with the instructor.

Discussion Posts: Students are responsible for attending every class session and engaging in online discussions on a regular basis. Actively engaging in online discussion posts is vital for your progress in this course. I will organize the class into groups on Quercus (you will find your group under “Discussions”). There will be a thread for each class. These discussion posts are required for every class with assigned readings except classes 1, 6, 11, and 12. You will therefore comment on readings from 8 of the 12 classes. You must ALSO respond to a fellow student in your group at least once for each class. In total, you will submit 8 posts and 8 responses (16 entries). Late or missing discussion posts will be penalized.

By the evening before each class (by 11:59PM on Mondays and Wednesdays), students will write at least two brief paragraphs on one or more of the week’s readings, including at least one question and a short evaluative comment. Your questions, comments, and reflections must draw on the assigned readings, including aspects of the text that you wish to understand or discuss, and/or reflections on the core concepts from the week’s readings. You are encouraged to quote excerpts from the course texts, but make sure to properly cite all paraphrase and direct quotations.

You are also required to respond to 1 of your group members’ posts for each class. By 11:59PM on Fridays, you must submit one response to a peer for BOTH of the discussion threads in that calendar week. In short, you must respond to a peer at least once for every class that a discussion post is due. These posts can be shorter (one paragraph minimum), responding to another student's questions or observations, building on something they have said, or asking questions of your own.

Students are encouraged to go beyond the minimum requirements for online discussion, and to take advantage of this forum for collective teaching and learning.

Final Assessment: There will be a final assessment that will include short answer and essay questions and will be written online during the official assessment period from 12PM – 3PM on Wednesday, August 19th.

To do well on the assessment, you need to know the specific arguments in each of the readings and lectures, and be able to discuss the main issues covered in both the readings and lectures. The assessment is synthetic, so you should think over the main themes and arguments discussed in the course and review the key arguments in each reading and lecture to prepare for them.

Missed Final Assessment: Students who miss the final assessment will be assigned a grade of 0. In the case of a missed final assessment, please directly contact your registrar to follow protocol.

Essays: The first 'essay' assignment asks you to develop a proposal for research on an issue of interest to you among LGBTQI+ families. This assignment is intended to be the first step towards a larger research paper that you will submit at the end of the course. You will be asked to develop a research problem and a driving research question that seeks to address this. Then, you will develop an annotated bibliography of several sources that address your research question. The first essay will be 3-5 pages in length.

This second essay, a research paper, will build on the work of your first essay. This will be a more conventional written assignment that develops an argument (a thesis) that addresses your research problem. Additional research will be used to support this essay. The second essay will be 7-10 pages in length.

The essays must be submitted on Quercus by 11:59PM on their respective due dates listed above. If you do not submit an assignment on time, you will need to declare your absence on ACORN, before the due date, and email the instructor. There will be a penalty of 5% per day for submitting any essay after the due date.

Keep a record of your submission including the date and time submitted—a screenshot is fine for this. Students must keep copies of their work in case assignments are lost. Students are responsible for assignments that are lost.

Note: Please be aware that turning in an old paper, or large parts thereof, for credit, is considered an academic offense that results in students being referred to the Office of Academic Integrity.

Writing Essays and Academic Integrity: Students who have questions or concerns about how to write an essay should make an appointment to discuss this during my office hours – for advice and help. Otherwise, I recommend using the very helpful website, "Writing at the University of Toronto," at www.writing.utoronto.ca. Look under "advice" and then "style and editing."

Writing workshops are also available for students; for information on them go to www.writing.utoronto.ca/news/writing-plus. A helpful guide to writing is: Margot Northey and Margaret Procter, Writer's Choice: A Portable Guide for Canadian Writers (Prentice Hall Cda). And Wm. Strunk and E.B. White's The Elements of Style is the best general summary of the rules of grammar and good writing.

Students are expected to acquaint themselves with the rules concerning plagiarism. Cheating and misrepresentation will not be tolerated. Students who commit an academic offence face serious penalties. Avoid plagiarism by citing properly.

The Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters in the Calendar of the Faculty of Arts and Science specifies: "It shall be an offence for a student knowingly: to represent as one's own any idea or expression of an idea or work of another in any academic examination or term test or in connection with any other form of academic work, i.e. to commit plagiarism. Wherever in the Code an offence is described as depending on 'knowing', the offence shall likewise be deemed to have been committed if the person ought reasonably to have known." In short, do not "borrow" passages from books or articles or websites without citing them. If you copy the words of other people, put quotation marks around them and cite the reference (that is, put author's surname, date, & page number in parentheses). If you paraphrase you also need to cite the reference, with the page number. Then, be sure to put all sources that you cite in the "References" at the back of the paper. Plagiarizing can result in a very serious penalty, and any suspected case will be turned over to the Office of Academic Integrity.

Familiarize yourself with the University of Toronto's Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters (<http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/policies/behaveac.htm>). It is the rule book for academic behaviour at the U of T, and you are expected to know the rules.

Re-Grading Policy: For clarification and questions about your grades, students should wait at least 24 hours after receiving their grade to contact the TA or instructor. This is intended to encourage adequate time for reflection on the grade and its rationale. If you wish to request a regrade of an assignment, you must submit a one-page document by email within 5 days of receiving your grade. Indicate specifically your areas of concern, your questions, and make an argument as to why your grade should be different. NOTE: Regrades can result in a higher or lower grade.

Student Services and Resources:

Accessibility: Students with diverse learning styles and needs are welcome in this course. In particular, if you have a disability or health consideration that may require accommodations, please feel welcome to approach me and/or Accessibility Services at (416) 978 8060 or accessibility.utoronto.ca

Equity & Diversity: The University of Toronto and I are committed to equity and respect for diversity. All members of the learning environment in this course should strive to create an atmosphere of mutual respect. As a course instructor, I will neither condone nor tolerate behaviour that undermines the dignity or self-esteem of any individual in this course and wish to be alerted to any attempt to create an intimidating or hostile environment. It is our collective responsibility to create a space that is inclusive and welcomes discussion. Discrimination, harassment, and hate speech will not be tolerated.
