Course Description:

This is not a typical “sociology of Indigenous peoples” course. Rather, this seminar provides a graduate level introduction to Indigenous Sociology to advance a decolonized sociological imagination. Foregrounding Indigenous Lifeworlds, or “the dual intersubjectivities of first world dispossessed Indigenous peoples” (Walter & Sunia 2019:234), this course will provide students with a theoretical and methodological foundation informed by Indigenous thought-leaders, texts, frameworks, and concepts emanating from both academic and community contexts. Engaging relevant literature from the multi-disciplinary field of Indigenous Studies, and centering Indigenous theorizing about the social world, students will analyze, interrogate, and transcend the sociological imagination to envision a decolonized sociology. Applying critical social theory, and paying particular attention to the Canadian context, we will think through the uses and limits of concepts like settler colonialism, decolonization, racial capitalism, and heteropatriarchy. In addition to gaining a foundational knowledge of the history and lived social realities of Indigenous peoples in Canada, students will learn how Indigenous theorists understand the relationship between macro structures, social institutions, settler logics, and lived experience, and how this theorizing is taken up to achieve meaningful social change.

Course Goals:

By end of this course, students will be able to:

- Unsettle dominant approaches to understanding “The Indian Problem.”
- Articulate the differences between Indigenous Sociology vs. A Sociology of Indigenous People
- Explore contributions of Indigenous scholars and scholarship in sociological research
- Communicate concepts and principles central to Indigenous Studies
- Demonstrate relationality and reflexivity as you consider your own positionality in research

Required Text:

Monchalin, Lisa. 2016. The Colonial Problem: An Indigenous Perspective on Crime and Injustice in Canada. Toronto, ON: University of Toronto Press.

You must either purchase the book or borrow it from the library. All other materials can be found on our course website and/or the University of Toronto library website (login required).

Evaluation Components:

| COMPONENT (ESSAY,TEST, PRESENTATION) | DESCRIPTION (PAGE-LENGTH, TIME REQUIREMENTS, CONTENT) | DATE DUE (DD/MM/YY) | RELATIVE WEIGHT |
|--|--|--|--------------------|
| 1. Seminar Participation | regular class attendance + active participation in class discussions | ongoing | 10% |
| 2. Reading Accountability | fill out a reading keys worksheet each week; shorthand annotations to help process information + stay accountable to reading | Weekly; Due 24 hours before class time | 15% |
| 3. Seminar Leadership | each student facilitates and leads a class discussion of assigned readings once during the course | Leadership schedule TBD | 20% |
| 4. Land Acknowledgement | Critical place-based self-reflexive research land statement; 4-5-pages double-spaced. | 10/15/21 | 20% |
| 5. Final Paper | Demonstrate a decolonized sociological imagination in research and writing. | 11/5/21 | 35% |

Course Requirements:

1. Seminar Participation (10%): For a successful graduate seminar, it is imperative that each student be prepared to attend classes regularly. If you anticipate problems with regular attendance, please inform your professors in WEEK 1 to discuss your situation and to determine if it makes sense for you to remain in the class. You will be evaluated based on attendance and the quality of your contributions to in-class discussions. The scaled rubric for assessing participation is as follows: (15) present in all sessions, accountable to readings, active contributions, initiates thoughtful questions, and offers insightful observations; (10) present in all or most sessions, accountable to readings, baseline contributions, responds when called upon with thoughtful questions or insightful observations; (5) present and silent unless called upon. In general, it is the quality of your contributions that matters more than the quantity.

2. Seminar Leadership (20%): Students will read the weekly assigned materials beforehand and be prepared to discuss them in class. Each student will lead a weekly seminar once during the course. We will determine the presentation schedule on the first day of class. Each student will be responsible for providing a brief 10-15-minute summary of the readings that they have signed up for. You should expect that everyone has read; if they haven't that's their problem, not yours. Your task is to come up with a wide-swath of questions and conversation points to get the discussion going, and to be the point-person for that discussion. You are essentially the “professor for the day.” You will be assessed based on the quality and accuracy of your summary, and on the efficacy of your leadership.

3. Reading Accountability (15%): Each week, you will fill out the reading keys worksheet for all assigned readings and hand it in via Quercus before class time. This exercise provides you with an opportunity to demonstrate your accountability to the weekly readings so that you are not arriving to class expecting to leech off your peers’ reading labor. If you aren’t already doing so, it is also good practice to think about and process the materials that you read in this way.

5. Land Acknowledgment (20%): Students will first explore the Land Acknowledgement Module in Quercus to begin your critical thinking about the form, function, prevalence, and purpose of territorial land acknowledgments. The module provides materials to familiarize yourselves with Mississaugas political history and resources for critical self-reflection. Students will incorporate required materials and module resources to create a 4–5-page self-reflexive positionality statement that acknowledges their lived relations to land and peoples.

6. Final Paper (35%): Demonstrate an anti-colonial sociological imagination in your individual projects. Student will draw from course content and additional sources to demonstrate how your research project will advance or contribute to a Critical Indigenous Sociology. 12-15 pages.

Course Format:

This seminar will be reading intensive, and it is imperative that you keep up with course content and commit to regular class attendance. The seminar will act like a “crash course” in Indigenous Sociology. Students must read materials prior to arriving in class, and each student will come prepared ready to engage in active learning. In general, students will be responsible for leading seminar discussions. Group discussions and collaborative learning will allow you to process information in a collegial environment, explore ideas and concepts with your peers, and provide a space for everyone to participate in active, thoughtful, and respectful discussion and debate. We strive to achieve a collaborative, respectful, and robust learning space.

COURSE POLICIES

Late Work

Assignments that are more than 72 hours (3 days) late will not be accepted.

Late assignments for reasons that are within your control will be penalized 10% marks per day. The penalty will run from the day and time the assignment was due until the day and time it is submitted to the instructor(s).

Academic Integrity

Copying, plagiarizing, falsifying medical certificates, or other forms of academic misconduct will not be tolerated. Any student caught engaging in such activities will be referred to the Dean's office for adjudication. Any student abetting or otherwise assisting in such misconduct will also be subject to academic penalties. Students are expected to cite sources in all written work and presentations. See this link for tips for how to use sources well:

<http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice/using-sources/how-not-to-plagiarize>.

According to Section B.1.1.(e) of the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters it is an offence "to submit, without the knowledge and approval of the instructor to whom it is submitted, any academic work for which credit has previously been obtained or is being sought in another course or program of study in the University or elsewhere."

By enrolling in this course, you agree to abide by the university's rules regarding academic conduct, as outlined in the Calendar. You are expected to be familiar with the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters (<http://www.artsci.utoronto.ca/osai/The-rules/code/the-code-of-behaviour-on-academic-matters>) and Code of Student Conduct (<http://www.viceprovoststudents.utoronto.ca/publicationsandpolicies/codeofstudentconduct.htm>) which spell out your rights and duties, and provides all the details on grading regulations and academic offences at the University of Toronto.

Normally, students will be required to submit their course essays to Turnitin.com for a review of textual similarity and detection of possible plagiarism. In doing so, students will allow their essays to be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database, where they will be used solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism. The terms that apply to the University's use of the Turnitin.com service are described on the Turnitin.com web site.

Accessibility Services

It is the University of Toronto's goal to create a community that is inclusive of all persons and treats all members of the community in an equitable manner. In creating such a community, the University aims to foster a climate of understanding and mutual respect for the dignity and worth of all persons. Please see the University of Toronto Governing Council "Statement of Commitment Regarding Persons with Disabilities" at <http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/Assets/Governing+Council+Digital+Assets/Policies/PDF/ppnov012004.pdf>.

In working toward this goal, the University will strive to provide support for, and facilitate the accommodation of individuals with disabilities so that all may share the same level of access to opportunities, participate in the full range of activities that the University offers, and achieve their full potential as members of the University community. We take seriously our obligation to make this course as welcoming and accessible as feasible for students with diverse needs. We also understand that disabilities can change over time and will do our best to accommodate you. Students seeking support must have an intake interview with a disability advisor to discuss their individual needs. In many instances it is easier to arrange certain accommodations with more advance notice, so we strongly encourage you to act as quickly as possible. To schedule a registration appointment with a disability advisor, please visit Accessibility Services at <http://www.studentlife.utoronto.ca/as>, call at 416-978-8060, or email at: accessibility.services@utoronto.ca. Office location: 455 Spadina Avenue, 4th Floor, Suite 400.

Additional student resources for distressed or emergency situations can be located at distressedstudent.utoronto.ca; Health & Wellness Centre, 416-978-8030, <http://www.studentlife.utoronto.ca/hwc>, or Student Crisis Response, 416-946-7111.

Equity and Diversity

The University of Toronto is committed to equity and respect for diversity. All members of this course should strive to create an atmosphere of mutual respect. As a course instructor, I will neither condone nor tolerate behavior that undermines the dignity or self-esteem of any individual in this course. Please alert me to any intimidating, hostile or racist behavior. It is our collective responsibility to create a space that is inclusive and welcomes critical yet respectful discussion. Discrimination, harassment and hate speech of any kind will not be tolerated.
