Overview
One must refuse everything to the Jews as a nation and grant the Jews everything as individuals.... Individually, they must be citizens.
—Stanislas de Clermont-Tonnerre, French National Assembly, debate on the eligibility of Jews for citizenship (1789)

Let us not look for the secret of the Jew in his religion.... An organization of society that would abolish the prerequisites of haggling...would make the [existence of the] Jew impossible.
—Karl Marx, On the Jewish Question (1844)

A corner of Palestine, a “canton,” how can we promise to be satisfied with it? We cannot. We never can. Should we swear to you we would be satisfied, it would be a lie.
—Vladimir Jabotinsky, Evidence Submitted to the Palestine Royal Commission (1937)

People plan and God laughs.
—Yiddish folk saying

In pre-modern Europe, Jews lacked citizenship rights. The Jewish Question asks how Jews ought to adapt to the modern world. Seeking answers, Jews formulated competing ideologies and joined social and political movements that, they believed, would help them realize their dreams. This course examines the origins, development, implementation, successes and failures of the three socio-political movements that were the main secular solutions Jews advocated: liberalism, communism and Zionism.

- Liberalism promoted the integration of Jews in democratic, capitalist societies with the same civil and political rights as non-Jews.
- Communism invited Jews to fight for the creation of a classless society in which, as Marx put it, each person would contribute “according to his ability” and receive “according to his needs,” and where religion would disappear because it would no longer be needed.
- Zionism advocated the founding of a sovereign state in the Jews’ ancient homeland.

The liberal, communist and Zionist dreams succeeded in some respects to live up to the expectations of their advocates. However, like most human endeavours, they failed in other respects, sometimes tragically. It is unlikely that this course will generate compelling answers to the Jewish Question for the 21st century. However, it may raise issues that prompt you to inquire further as you seek your own meaningful values and courses of action.
Readings
Students with little or no background in Jewish history should read the first item (#0) in the list below before the start of classes. The remaining items (#1 to #15) are required readings for all students.

Books that should be obtained before the course begins

Items available free of charge on the course Quercus site (go to Files>readings)
Films
The films listed below deal with inhuman cruelty and deep moral and political quandaries. In other words, they mirror life. Viewer discretion is advised. Viewing the following films is required.

- Jew Süss (Germany, 1940; 1:35). Süss was a real historical figure. He served as financial advisor to the Duke of the German state of Württemberg in the early 1700s. When the Duke died, Süss’s enemies accused him of fraud, embezzlement, treason, lecherous relations with court ladies, accepting bribes, and trying to re-establish Catholicism in the Protestant state. After a trial that produced no proof of guilt, Süss was found guilty. Given a chance to convert to Christianity, he refused and was hanged. Two centuries later, Joseph Goebbels, the Nazi Minister of Propaganda, backed a reinterpretation of the story of Süss that became the most notorious antisemitic film ever produced. A box office sensation across Germany, it became a staple of propaganda evenings organized by Hitler Youth, the SS and other Nazi organizations. The film depicts Süss as a figure of cynical cunning and malign will, a sexual predator sowing corruption everywhere whose promotion of Jewish emancipation brings Württemberg to the brink of moral and social ruin.

- Paradise Now (Palestine and Israel, 2005; 1:31), screenplay by Hany Abu-Assad and Bero Beyer, starring Kais Nashif and Ali Suliman. This film won 13 film awards, including a Golden Globe Award for best foreign film, and was nominated for an Oscar. It portrays two Palestinian friends who are recruited for a suicide bombing in Tel Aviv during the second intifada. However, things go wrong, and the attackers follow separate paths.

- The Gatekeepers (Israel, 2012; 1:41), documentary, directed by Dror Moreh, starring Ami Ayalon, Avraham Shalom and Avi Dichter. This film won 7 film awards including the Award of the Israeli Film Academy for best documentary, and it was nominated for an Oscar for best documentary. The three principals, all former heads of the Shin Bet, Israel’s Security Service, provide compelling arguments about how best to solve the Palestinian question.

- The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz (Canada, 1974; 1:55). This film is based on Mordecai Richler’s 1959 novel of the same name. The film won four film awards, including the Golden Globe Award for Best Foreign Film, and was nominated for an Oscar for best adapted screenplay. Benjy (played by Richard Dreyfus) is a young Jew in 1940s Montreal whose father drives a taxi. While his rich uncle is putting Benjy’s brother through McGill medical school, Benjy must use his guile and street smarts to make it big. Along the way, he betrays a friend and loses his Québécoise girlfriend and much of traditional value.
Weekly Topics, Readings, Films
Numbers preceded by a # correspond to the items listed above. Page numbers are in parentheses. The amount of required reading varies from week to week. Please plan accordingly. Films will be made available online and will be discussed in the class following the week in which they are viewed.

Attendance
Attending all classes is required. If you cannot attend a class due to illness or family emergency, please obtain lecture notes from a classmate.

Deadline
The optional essay is due by noon on 6 April. Late work will not be accepted without proper documentation (see “Documentation below). Without proper documentation, the penalty for late submission will be 2% per day.

Plagiarism
Students wishing to write an optional essay or book review must complete and submit the form on the last page of the syllabus with each assessment. Cheating and misrepresentation will not be tolerated. If you commit an academic offence, you will face serious penalties. Avoid plagiarism by citing properly. Know where you stand by reading the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters.

Accessibility
If you have accessibility concerns, please visit Accessibility Services. If you require accommodation, you MUST register with Accommodated Testing Services AT LEAST TWO WEEKS BEFORE EACH ASSESSMENT.

If you miss an assessment
If you miss an assessment due to illness or injury, you must immediately email Professor Brym (robert.brym@utoronto.ca) and declare your absence on ACORN. If you miss an assessment due to a family emergency or other personal reason, you must immediately contact your College Registrar, who will inform Professor Brym. If for any reason you miss an assessment, the value of the missed assessment will be distributed as follows:

Academic Integrity Checklist
SOC489H1S/CJS490H1-S LEC0201

Professor Robert Brym

I, ____________________________, affirm that this assignment represents entirely my own efforts.

I confirm that:

☐ I have acknowledged the use of another’s ideas with accurate citations.
☐ If I used the words of another (e.g., author, instructor, information source), I have acknowledged this with quotation marks (or appropriate indentation) and proper citation.
☐ When paraphrasing the work of others, I put the idea into my own words and did not just change a few words or rearrange the sentence structure.
☐ I have checked my work against my notes to be sure I have correctly referenced all direct quotes or borrowed ideas.
☐ My bibliography includes only the sources used to complete this assignment.
☐ This is the first time I have submitted this assignment (in whole or in part) for credit.
☐ Any proofreading by another was limited to indicating areas of concern which I then corrected myself.
☐ This is the final version of my assignment and not a draft.
☐ I have kept my work to myself and did not share answers/content with others, unless otherwise directed by my instructor.
☐ I understand the consequences of violating the University’s academic integrity policies as outlined in the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters.

By signing this form I agree that the statements above are true.

If I do not agree with the statements above, I will not submit my assignment and will consult the course instructor immediately.
